

Healing Prayer

Jesus—my healing comes from You through the Holy Spirit, from the Father—not because of “something” inherent or essential in my being; I do not take Your healing for granted! Therefore, in this prayer, I thank You that You are The Healer, that the “stripes,” and “lashings” and “deep cuts” placed into Your flesh by the whip, were for healing—my healing—paid for by You. The depth of Your injury speaks to the depths of healing You have made available to me. Therefore, Jesus, I thank You for my total healing, provided by Your blood, death, and resurrection.

I receive my healing, now, Jesus, through faith—I know You heal, and are The Healer of me—body, soul, and Spirit! I believe—but should there be any doubt in me, help me now with unbelief! I praise You, Jesus, that You are the “Healing Redeemer,” and that I can trust You to heal. I praise You and thank You, Father God, that You are the Healing GOD, and You love me!

I thank you for the healing of [insert your need here], Jesus, and, perhaps most importantly, I thank you for healing me of fear, for the removal of that “fear tumor” that would try to displace my flesh of faith, now exchanged, for Your free-flowing healing blood, given to me through Your suffering and love.

I thank You, Jesus, and praise You, my Redeemer and healer—my Lord and Master—my Friend, and the lover of my soul! I love You! Amen!
